

SUCINA

Sucina is a small village which has become surrounded by golf courses and resorts.

The village consists of a mixture of old and new. The church and its square are still at the heart of the village and there are some old houses to be found in the surrounding streets. There are also many newly built houses, the British influence can be seen in the church square with cafes advertising 'fish and chips'.